

Holding Hands

Home Page contents

Companionship

The perfect companionship for your child providing the supportive, warm connection equivalent to what a loving mother or father can give.

Special needs and counselling

A child passes through different stages with different behavioral responses and attitudes. A wise parent understands each child is unique and that, in trying circumstances, calling in experts would help their child. Professional counselors handle children with care, sensitivity and guide them on the right path.

Care and Feedback

Give the right guided loving care to your child at all stages of development and the feedback in the form of a lighted up face, love shining in his eyes, obedience and perfect behavior will be ample rewards.

About Us

Holding Hands is all about positive, loving care and guidance for your precious children in difficult and trying circumstances. We are focused on providing expert, professional child care for normal children, exceptional attention to children with issues and superior rehab assistance. As a busy parent you may not have the time, the patience or the expertise to do it right. Let our experts do it for you with love and affection. While providing the best care for your child, we also assist parents through counseling and bring both the child and parent closer in love and understanding.

We have a team of professional, highly qualified and experienced experts in all aspects of child care. Our care givers have professional background in sociology, psychology, social work and physiotherapy with hands on practical experience. We have hand picked each of our team members for their special love for children and a passion for giving expert care.

Call us if you have a recalcitrant child on your hand, a toddler who tries your patience, a preschooler who gets on your nerves or a teenager who drives you crazy with his rebellious attitudes. Call us if you have a child recovering from an injury, with mental issues or physical condition and you can be sure we will do more than just give company. Holding Hands delivers the perfect care according to the situation and resolves issues for you.

Your children grow up to be responsible, mature adults when you follow power parenting tips that will empower you. Simultaneously we handle your child and remove sharp corners and rough edges. You avoid child rebellions, child disobedience, frustrations and all those issues that cloud a child-parent relationship by the wisdom of experience distilled for you in neat child care solutions.

Vision

Our vision is a world where children receive love and understanding, have their problems resolved and harmonize with their family members while growing up into becoming responsible members of community.

Our Mission

Our mission is to deliver excellent child care and foster smooth parent-child relationships. All the wisdom we have gained is now channeled into a series of solutions for parents with normal children and for those with hyperactive children, children with issues and children in need of rehab services. We relieve you of a burden, assure better family dynamics and bring about a blossoming of mutual love and respect.

Values

Holding Hands operates on a set of cherished, time-honoured, traditional values of

- Absolute loving care
- Each child is unique and receives unique handling
- Fairness, transparency, honesty
- Creating solid foundations for a better future

Holding Hands Services

Holding Hands is a child care specialist. We have the knowledge, the experience and the people to provide a range of services aimed at making parenting easy, relieve you of a burden when you are hardpressed for time, help you give the best to your children, nurture and mould them and turn them into model citizens.

A child is like plastic clay. What he becomes when he grows up depends largely on what he receives by way of care and education. Pressured as parents are by their work commitments and the burdens of life, they may not have the time to know how to relate with children, handle them, control them or mould them. Our services help you gain practical, tried and tested solutions; we have an answer for any problem and our friendly experts give the most knowledgeable and practical child care, customized to each situation. We address positive parenting, issues related to preschoolers and teenagers, outings and activities designed to develop children's personalities and promote harmonious parent-child love and physical therapy as well as rehabilitation matters. Our child care services cover children from one year to 17 years of age.

Our services in child care covers:

- Companionship
- Special needs and counseling
- Care and feedback

Companionship

As a working parent you may not have the time to give companionship to your child, so necessary for development besides safety and security. Our care givers take on the role of a mother and father in one, provide perfect loving companionship to your child while you are away. What sets us apart is that we provide not only companionship for the child but use the time and opportunity to educate him in a playful, entertaining way. You may have a toddler at home and are afraid of leaving him alone. Call us and your worries are over. Our professionals take him in hand, befriend him and keep him happily and busily engaged in a variety of activities. Do you have a child who is recovering from an illness and needs warm, supportive companionship? You can count on Holding Hands to give him or her just that and speed the recovery process.

You can spare very little time but with our expert companionship guidance, you provide quality child companionship children truly love, appreciate and look forward to. Parents of normal children benefit from this service and for those with children with issues, such as children with learning disabilities or physical disabilities, you can count on our expert to take matters in hand and improve matters. You will be surprised and amazed at what we can achieve. It may be an hour or a full day, but you can be sure our people are totally reliable, trustworthy and fully checked to be left alone with your child and provide companionship that will establish a strong foundation for growth and development.

Parenting is not a simple task with only a few duties; it involves comprehensive skills that you may not have or the time to implement them. Holding hands becomes your in loco parentis.

Special needs and counseling

As it is, bringing up a normal child is time consuming, a love of labour, a trial of patience and a drain on your mental and physical resources. If you have an overly sensitive child, a shy child, a boisterous baby, a child with special needs due to some traits, you need to be careful about how you proceed with his upbringing. In such instances a parent can be confused about the right stance and methodologies to adopt or may not have the time available. Holding Hands is your one stop solution in all such cases where special needs call for special counseling. Our experts in sociology, psychology, child care, health care and behavioural sciences are here to iron out the kinks and add a refined polish to your child's personality.

Apart from behavioral aspects calling for special counseling by our experts, Holding Hands also delivers superior child care for special cases involving physical and mental disabilities, trauma, recovery from illness and injuries.

Our sensitive care, given with understanding, soft touch of warmth and love draws out the right responses from your children. The way we handle it a child is never felt pressured or dominated or handled—all of which no child likes. Holding hands develops bonds and ties and actually teaches your child to distinguish and decide on that which is right for him and his family.

Get in touch with us and learn about special needs counseling that will put your family and relationships on the right track.

Care and feedback

Your child is precious and is as malleable as plastic clay. The care and love you lavish on him (or her) shows in the way each one responds and blossoms. Do you worry if you are doing it right? Can you recognize the signs and signals your child gives out? This can be a question you think about, especially when your baby is not able to talk and can only communicate through body language as the method of feedback. Our agile, dynamic child care and feedback program teaches you the right set of actions at the right time during his developing years and also teaches you to recognize the feedback and adapt accordingly. However, not all mothers are lucky enough to be able to devote all their time to taking care of their children. This is where Holding Hands steps in and fills that void, acting as a parent while you are away at work. We have people who love children and are passionate about their upbringing. With a missionary zeal they take care of each precious child, customizing approaches so that there is never any dissatisfaction. Your children will love our caregivers and will look forward to spending quality time with them._

As responsible child care givers, we keep parents fully informed down to the last detail through our system of feedback. Parents can get clues about better parenting and also know the progress their child is making in life.

In sum

Children are precious, highly impressionable, vulnerable and sensitive. Our superior expertise and qualification helps in giving exactly the right care for positive outcomes for the future.

Parents can become overbearing and dominating, possessive and questioning but with our enlightened guidance, you learn how to maintain a balance, when to be in command and when to give leeway. We address both sides of the equation. Our services have contributed to happy, positive families tied together in bonds of love and understanding.

Approach and Ideas

Each child is unique and the circumstances are also unique. As such there is no cut and dried method of delivering child care services. Our experts have a background in behavioral sciences, psychology and child care. They are perfectly capable of unique, flexible, adaptable approaches and ideas to giving the perfect care for your child.

Our multidimensional approach and ideas in child care covers:

- Positive parenting through enlightened guidance
- Total child care for children of all ages from one to 17 years
- Managing preschooling and teenager issues with highly satisfactory outcomes
- Outings and activities for children of all ages
- Physical therapy and rehabilitation for children of all ages

as part of our overall child care services.

Positive Parenting

Be a parent, not a guide, recognize the signs and adapt dynamically

Some parents start by giving their infant children everything and fulfill their wishes but years later complain that their children are driving them crazy. With wise, positive parenting approach, you can be sure this situation will never arise in your case. The seeds of child and teen behavior are laid in the roots of infancy. This is where you start being positive and continue that role of caring, loving and wise parenthood. Even if you have spoilt your infant with love, hugs and kisses, you can always, subtly and gently, ease him on to the right path with wise and positive parenting that you learn from us.

Parenting is challenging yet immensely rewarding if things go right. You can be in charge, in control, yet give love and command respect as well as obedience from your child if you only take a little bit of trouble to learn about positive parenting. We are here to provide friendly, expert and easy assistance. You can give your child all the doting love you want, fulfill his or her needs yet never have a rebellious situation or rank, outright disobedience when you control him with silken threads, not steel wires.

You can be honest and open with your child, love them and gain their respect, command their obedience and help them reach their goals in life with our positive parenting techniques.

Preschooling and Teenager Issues

Preschoolers can try your temper and tax your patience beyond endurance. Teenagers can be just as trying. This is the age when they develop negative attitudes like addiction to games and internet, have little control over emotions and show a tendency to become detached from society. At the same time interest in sex awakens and complicates life. Addictions always loom on the horizon. They form friendships and attachments over which you have little or no control or knowledge. These are all serious concerns and you may want to take action, remedial or preventive. Holding Hands is your expert, trusted child care professional to tackle preschoolers and teenagers.

Our experts have plenty of tact, depths of wisdom, tons of patience and the capabilities to tackle children. Our counselors mentor children of all ages with surprising finesse. In a short time they develop a rapport and communicate. Counsel and action go together. You will find that your preschooler drops negative habits and develops solid, positive approaches while showing more respect and love for you. If your teenager is enmeshed in an undesirable relationship, has developed an addiction or is withdrawn from society, our experts initiate tactical strategies to bring him back while counseling you on how to handle him during this difficult stage. We bring hope and healing magic touch to your family life, resolving all preschooler and teenager issues.

Outing and Activities

A child, left to his devices, may not find proper direction and mature as expected. A parent's responsibility does not confine itself to the four walls of your home. Outing and activities are necessary adjuncts, a part of the overall life and growth of your child. Much as you wish, you may not have the time for such outings and activities.

Holding Hands fills that void to perfection. Our experts take your children on outings and engage them in meaningful activities that are informative, entertaining and educational. A child, right from infancy, is learning new things each moment of his waking life. Outings and activities are just as necessary for his overall development as are studies and education. Our professional handlers take your children on outings alone or in groups to enable them to learn and enjoy as well as make friends. We plan outings that arouse curiosity and activities that sharpen his desire for more knowledge. He learns to share, compete, gain individual skills and also team work. With our carefully planned outing and activities series you can be sure your child will develop cognitive, physical and social skills to a higher than ordinary level. These activities equip him for life.

Physical Therapy and Rehabilitation

Not all children are born normally or develop without issues. Some children may have physical imbalances or mental issues. Some children may become victims of accidents or diseases and the process of physical therapy and rehabilitation in such cases is a long drawn out one, calling for utmost understanding. You need tons of patience and energy in such difficult times. You also need to devote time. If you are busy with a career you may not be able to give as much attention to child as he/she deserves. Call Holding Hands. We have specialist care givers especially trained for situations calling for expert physical therapy and rehabilitation measures. What sets us apart is not only excellence of knowledge but that our experts deliver it with love and understanding, developing close ties with your child, securing his trust and making him comfortable. Our experts initiate the right set of processes for each child that will result in improvements in a short time. We use latest and time tested techniques as well as the best equipments as may be required for physical therapy and rehabilitation. You get complete daily reports along with tips on how to handle situations.

We have experts in trauma care, physical rehab and therapy, Down syndrome, cerebral palsy, physical disabilities, neuro development and personality disorders. Trust us, thousands of parents have and to good effect.

Testimonials

“Faced with a rebellious child, my first thought was to impress my authority but a call to Holding Hands changed my perspective on parenting. I was pleasantly surprised when a courteous counselor arrived, took charge of my child and magically transformed him in a few days into a determined, willful child who is also well disciplined.”

“Activities and outings are for fun or so I thought but with Holding Hands I find these take on a new meaning. I entrusted my child to them and am glad to say their special way of doing it has taught my kids to get more out of these and develop an undying thirst for knowledge. Cannot say how much this has changed things....”

“I have a six month old infant and now that I know about wise parenting through your apt counseling, I feel confident of giving my child the best in years to come and make him the ideal son a parent can be proud of..”

“Love for a child is not about giving in to his wishes and I can have control without diminishing love yet command respect and obedience. These are the wonderful techniques Holding Hands taught me and gave me a new perspective on parenting. They did not simply give advice; your staff also took my child in hand and worked their magic to change his attitudes and behavior. I am so relieved.”

“Within six months of enrolling my child with Holding Hands, I was able to establish a new found relationship with my fractious, impetuous, rebellious teenage daughter and today there is peace, concord and harmony. They took the right steps and have changed her inside out. She listens to me; I listen to her and hopefully, she will not have problems other teens have. I am laying a foundation that will last her through life and glad to say you people helped immensely.”

2 more added:

“My child had a fractured leg due to an accident and doctor advised physical therapy and rehab. Happy to say Holding Hands provided the perfect therapist who not only got my son back on his feet and running but also gave him a much-needed mental boost. Can’t say how grateful I am to you for going way beyond call of duty. My son remembers too!”

“Physical therapy gained a new meaning when I say therapists at work on my daughter after her debilitating illness. Massage and other therapies by your expert restored her to full normal condition within a month and today she is quite active in school. It is as if she never had any illness, so complete is her recovery thanks to you guys.”